

The Academy wants and needs you – help the Academy grow and succeed as a volunteer on an Academy Advisory Body.

The mission of the Academy of Clinical Science and Laboratory Medicine (ACSLM) is “To support excellence in clinical science and laboratory medicine, and in doing so, enhance patient outcomes”.

As a current member of our growing professional body, the Academy invites you to apply to become a member of one of the Academy Advisory Bodies and participate in advancing and developing our many new and exciting programmes and activities.

Apart from your contributions to Academy programmes and activities, you also have the opportunity as an advisory body member to personally benefit by:

- gaining insight into the operations of a professional society,
- connecting and collaborating with peers nationally and internationally, many of which are also leading members in the field,
- being recognised for your contributions and
- expanding your own personal and professional horizon

Are you interested? If you are an active and current member of the Academy, we would appreciate your expression of interest for one of our Advisory Bodies.

Are you:

- highly motivated to actively contribute to the pursuit of the mission, success and impact of the Academy and its’ advisory bodies for its’ members?
- prepared to make the commitment to be involved in developing and recommending ongoing relevant CPD and ad hoc projects (as decided by the advisory body together with the Academy Council) a priority?
- willing to dedicate at least 1 hour per week to the affairs of the Academy Advisory Body for a term of 2 years.
- willing to participate in up to 4 Advisory Body calls per year.
- willing to submit a report annually n your contribution to the activities of the advisory body
- dedicated to proactively champion causes that will promote the field of medical laboratory science?
- able to bring your personal and professional expertise to advance the Academy objectives?

As and when positions become available the Academy will be looking to recruit members to the following Advisory Bodies;

- Cellular Pathology,
- Clinical Chemistry
- Haematology
- Immunology,

- Management, Quality, IT, Safety,
- Medical Microbiology,
- Molecular Diagnostics,
- POCT,
- Transfusion and Transplantation Science,
- Virology

Are you willing to actively contribute? Please apply now!

How can you express your interest and be considered?

Download application form from the Academy website and you will need the following information to complete your submission;

- The advisory body(s) interested in serving on (a maximum of two choices are allowed).
- Expertise (talent) and experience that would make you an ideal contributor to each committee selected (250-word maximum),
- Short bio or CV (1-page maximum),
- Any time commitments that may impact your level of engagement,
- Declaration of any conflicts of interest,

Expressions of interest from all age groups and gender are encouraged and will be carefully considered to constitute committees (advisory bodies) that are effective, efficient and diverse.

Academy commitment:

- To provide as many meaningful volunteering opportunities to our members as possible,
- To give you true opportunities to make a difference to the success and impact of the Academy and its' Advisory Bodies,
- To provide you with personal and professional growth opportunities in a leadership role in a major national society,
- To value and recognise you for your time and commitment.

If you have questions about the process, please contact Mail@acslm.ie